Dear Editor,

"I have been a faithful and totally devoted reader since your very first issue. I am amazed every month how all the articles are ones that really touch a part of me. It seems as though you publish something that I need to hear at just that moment. It is so refreshing to have something to read where the insights of other women prick my heart so deeply. I continue to share this valuable tool with my sisters in Christ.

Thank you for your high-quality publication. I know that God is using your staff and contributing authors to minister powerfully to others just as you have to me. I know that God will continue to bless your endeavors because it is a ministry that is desperately needed, designed for women by women."
