Dear Reader:

I'm writing to remind you that your subscription expires soon, in just a couple of months. We need your renewal instructions right away to ensure continuous service on your subscription.

We are working to keep up CHRISTIANITY TODAY's long-standing tradition of publishing the best in Christian thought. That means news and editorials about the church, government, social issues, the arts, science – all the things that make a difference in our society.

As you know, CHRISTIANITY TODAY's articles and reporting are soundly based in biblical, orthodox Christianity. We hone and polish each piece, always keeping in mind the needs of busy readers. Our editors are privileged to work with some of the finest Christian writers and thinkers. And we're committed to publishing readable, substantial material that prompts thought and action.

We believe the upcoming months of CHRISTIANITY TODAY will result in some of our best issues yet, but that's for you to judge.

If you send in your renewal instructions now, you will not only avoid a break in service, you will also save money. The enclosed renewal order form has all the information you need.

There is no need to send in payment with your renewal order unless you prefer. We will be happy to invoice you later if that is more convenient.

Thank you for your prompt response and for your continued support.

Sincerely,

David Neff
Executive Editor
